

End of Semester Information/Obligations

Please read the entire section (or sections) that apply to you.

ALL STUDENTS-

- The last day of this card-marking/semester is Friday, January 18th ( $\frac{1}{2}$  day).
- Per the syllabus, late work will not be accepted after Friday, January 11th. If you are absent on Friday, you can only turn in work that was assigned on Friday/due Monday. This means, your missing work will NOT be accepted next week, if you are absent Friday.
- Your grade listed on the sheet (on tables) is current, please write in your planner any missing assignments you still have and their due date.
- All Literary Letters, Exit Tickets, Book Timelines and PPM Chart entries due Monday, January 14th. I will collect the composition books on Monday. Remember, you should have been working on these assignments throughout the card-marking and not put them off until the last week. Also, remember, Literary Letters are on separate paper.
- The grades posted for the Harrison Bergeron assignment are accurate. I graded this summatively, based on your actual score for the quiz section. As this was an "open text" quiz, there will be no retakes. Many students received a score that was lower than 50% and were given a 50% to help keep them from failing this class.
- Any student who did not do their book talk yet, must be prepared to go any day this week. If you are called to go and not prepared, you will not get another chance.

 Students who were absent one, or more days before the break-SEE BACK
