

JOAN DESOUZA, PH.D

Psychologist

BIO:

Dr. deSouza has been a practicing psychologist for more than 20 years. She has worked for the Michigan Center for Behavior and Medicine, The Michigan Bureau of Forensic Mental Health, and is currently employed with Dearborn Public Schools. Dr. deSouza has also been an adjunct professor of Psychology at The University of Michigan. She has played an integral part in the development of Response to Intervention, piloting of The Woodcock Johnson Cognitive Test-3 and the creation of 504 eligibility criteria under the Americans with Disabilities Act. Dr. deSouza has been the author of many scholarly publications and the recipient of awards from the University of Michigan, Wayne State University and Oxford University.