

Observations/Explicit

understandings in text

Parenthetically cite 2 examples of each type of figure of speech in the text (pun, oxymoron, euphemism, double entendre)

Pun #1

Romeo: "Not I believe me. You have dancing shoes with nimble soles; I have a soul of lead so stakes me to the ground I cannot move." (Act 1 Sc. 1 v lines 14-16)

Inferences/Implicit

understanding of text

1. Interpret the meaning of each example of figures of speech.
2. Analyze the role the use of the figure of speech plays in the text.

Pun #1

Romeo is sad about Rosaline and doesn't feel like dancing at the party. His soul is hurting because of heart break. He loves Rosaline, but she doesn't love him.
2) Shakespeare uses a pun as a way of explaining the feelings Romeo is having. It helps to shape the plays dramatic irony.

Talk to the Text

(T2T) . . .

Connections, ideas, and predictions.

Pun #1 (Connection)

This reminds me of my first crush in 7th grade. I thought we would be together forever, but it turned out he liked another girl better.

OR (Prediction)

I predict that Romeo will meet someone at the dance who will help him to get over his love for Rosaline.

OR (Ideas)

Romeo is too young for a relationship anyway. He should enjoy the party with his friends and move on!
