

PUBLIC PLACES START TO OPEN

A Server Wearing a Mask While Serving Food at a Restaurant

Many public places have been closed to help stop the spread of the coronavirus. Now leaders in states across the U.S. will start to open some public places again. These places include barbershops, restaurants and movie theaters. Each state decides when and how to reopen public places. Many public places will have special rules. These rules may help stop the spread of coronavirus. Places may ask people to wear masks and maintain social distancing. Social distancing means staying six feet away from strangers. Places may only let a certain number of people inside, to avoid crowds. What public places are open where you live?
