

In the space below, create a model of hot chocolate cooling over time. Show how the cocoa and air molecules were moving at different times. Add arrows to show the transfer of energy between the cocoa and the air.

----- System Boundary