

C. The Constitution originally failed to give individuals their rights, such as freedom of religion. The amendments of the Bill of Rights was a way to revise the constitution to guarantee individuals' rights. It was the constitution's first job to enforce a bill of rights.