The Merriam Webster dictionary defines care as "effort made to do something correctly, safely, or without causing damage; things that are done to keep someone healthy, safe, etc. Things that are done to keep something in good condition." To me, caring means to help someone you love or someone in need. Each of the images in my mask has a different reason for being there.

The first image is of a mom taking care of her daughter by fixing her hijab. Parents take care of their kids from the moment they are born until they can take care of themselves. Parents teach their kids all kinds of things, and many people feel that teaching turns us into the people we become as adults.

The second image is of the Care Bears which were very popular when I was a child.

The third image is of a family that is outdoors and it seems that they are enjoying their selves. Parents care for their children in many ways. Taking them on trips is one way that parents are showing care for their children.

The fourth image is of the characters on T.V. show FRIENDS. The show was about friends that cared about each other like family. The actors on the show also cared for each other and were not selfish when it came to negotiating their contracts.
