

HONORING POLICE OFFICERS

Police Officers

National Police Week is May 10-16 in the U.S. and honors police officers everywhere. Police officers protect people, enforce laws, solve crimes and arrest criminals. Washington, D.C., has a police officer memorial that honors U.S. police officers who have died while in the line of duty. Many police officers usually travel to Washington, D.C., for Police Week events. This year many of the events have been cancelled because of the coronavirus. People usually light candles to honor the police officers. This year people can watch a candle lighting ceremony online to honor police officers. The ceremony is May 13.

Will you watch the candle lighting ceremony?

Photo Credit: Shutterstock/Drop of Light

WHAT

HONORING POLICE OFFICERS

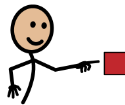

National Police Week is May 10 - 16 in the U.S.

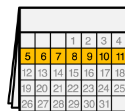

10 - 16

This

week

honors

police officers.

Police officers

protect people,

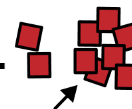

solve crimes,

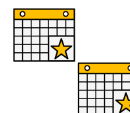

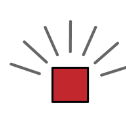

arrest criminals

and more.

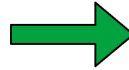

Washington, D.C., usually has special events for Police Week.

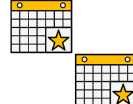

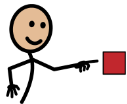

Many police officers usually go to Washington, D.C.

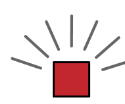

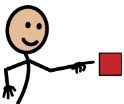

This year many events are cancelled.

People usually light candles to honor police officers.

This year people can watch a special ceremony online.

The ceremony will honor police officers.

1. WHAT is May 10-16 ?

National Police Week

Fat Bear
Week

Fire Prevention
Week

2. WHO does National Police Week honor ?

park rangers

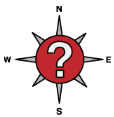

nurses

police officers

3. WHERE do many police officers usually go for Police Week ?

Washington,
D.C.

St. Louis, Missouri

Nashville, Tennessee

